ABOUT

All moms question the ability to parent at some point. They need a shoulder to lean on or just a friend to give them a little direction. Motherhood Defined fills this role magically.

Teri Hardy, Founder and CEO, found herself smack dab in a stay at home parent lifestyle shortly after finishing her business degree. While being a mom comes first, she felt as though something was missing. In 2009, she launched her original blog which later molded the walkway for Motherhood Defined.

Led by an amazing group of professional writers and trendy moms, Motherhood Defined is an abundant source for women to experience the joys of cooking and do-it-yourself without the headache, busy moms who seek to find trends and fashion finds that are not only hot but also completely doable and those who just need a good laugh.

Motherhood Defined engages our community using many methods including the website, popular social media channels, live events and news segments.

Teri is also founder and partner at MPM, Mom Powered Media, a full service social media company.

Offering you the best marketing available in the blogosphere.
